

The Intelligencer.

Office No. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

Now shall see who is the real power behind the throne.

No office seekers need apply until the honey-moon is over.

PRIVATE SECRETARY LAMONT were a broad Empire State smile.

In Arkansas they do not mind juggling a judge when he goes wrong.

CORNER BEN FOLSON has suddenly assumed the importance of a great national issue.

That was true, after all, about the President. Behold the vindication of the play papers.

THE HOT STUBS and refreshment bars are better than "gashers" and "gassers." There's millions in 'em.

COL. MORT'S lecture tour has been postponed for a year, owing to circumstances over which he has no control.

MISS FOLSON moved into the White House with eleven Saratoga trunks. These were a mild intimation to the bachelor bridegroom-elect.

CHICAGO is doing well in the matter of Anarchist indictments. Perhaps the invaders will begin to take the hint and leave the country.

AMERICAN JURIES are not in favor of fire and blood, and American judges don't spare the law when they come to deal it out to Anarchists.

MR. POWDERLY has his head and hands very full at this time. The country is awaiting with interest to see how he will get through with it.

In the bride of the nation, so to speak, had appeared in American fabrics made up by American hands, how American it would all have seemed.

In there must be convict cages, Governor Wilson, don't you think it would be as well to let them be made in some other State, just for the fun of the thing?

HENRY CLAY, Mr. Cleveland will have a mother-in-law to give him the benefit of her wise counsel in matters of State. Mr. Cleveland has always been regarded as a stubborn man.

THE MAGWOMPS will never, no never, forgive Mr. Blaine, for siding with the American fishermen against the codfish aristocracy of Canada; and as for his sympathy with old Ireland, that is simply hideous.

It was very thoughtful of Secretary Manning to order a full dress suit for the occasion. By and by our American tailors will be able to come up to the requirements of an official society based on a severe idea of Jeffersonian simplicity.

MR. BLAINE doesn't seem to be discouraged about anything that happened in the recent past. And speaking of corpses, I've heard any of the earmarks of one. He might even be among the "prominently mentioned" in the next National Republican Convention.

It is beyond belief that Mr. Farnell's letters are "withheld for revision" in the London postoffice. The delay of one of his letters bound for America is not easy to explain, but Mr. Gladstone's government is friendly to Mr. Farnell, and no subordinate would dare to exercise a censorship over the Irish leader's correspondence.

In a monograph of the American Economic Association, to be issued this week, Professor E. J. James discusses the relative advantages of private and municipal control of gas-works, taking ground in favor of municipal control. Professor James strengthens his position with the history of gas-works in Philadelphia, Richmond and Wheeling. If he has done justice to the Wheeling end of his subject he has produced something worth reading.

Most gets all there is of it, and it isn't quite enough for a red-mountained doctrinaire of his stamp. He has preached the worst doctrine that the mind of man can conceive, and he has done all that was in him to put his doctrine into practice. If the people of this country are oppressed by their laws it was easy for them to escape his share of the oppression by keeping out of the country. The American people were not yearning for John Most to come over and deliver them from the iron rule of their own laws. He came as a meddler and he has burnt his fingers. A year in prison will give him time for reflection, and work will be a new sensation to him.

Complimentary to General O'Connell. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—The North-Western Literary and Historical Society, with headquarters at Sioux City, Iowa, has elected General Nathan O'Connell an honorary member. The society has forwarded to General O'Connell a set of resolutions and a complimentary letter announcing the election. This is thought to be a response to the "salute" speech recently delivered by the distinguished West Virginian in Congress, of which the Republican Committee of Iowa are circulating fifty thousand copies.

Newburgh Miners Strike. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., June 2.—The miners in the shaft of the Newburgh Coal Company, some sixty in number, struck yesterday against a reduction from fifty cents to forty cents per ton. Some thirty of them left to-day. An agreement was entered into that as long as the miners were out on strike they would not give them any cents; if they were successful in getting the fifty cents they would have it; otherwise, if they went in at forty cents they were to work at the same price, but now they refuse to do so.

New Charter Granted. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., June 2.—A new charter has been granted to the Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Wheeling. The company forfeited its charter by non-payment of taxes and license.

The Coal River Boom Company has filed papers for dissolution at the office of the Secretary of State.

MARRIED.

Mid the Perfume of Flowers and Strains of Sweet Music.

The Simple Ceremony that Made Miss Frances Folson

The Wife of the President and the Mistress of the White House.

The Decorations of the Executive The Costumes.

The People who Were Present and the Crowds Outside.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—Other weddings have been at the White House, eight in all, but never before to-day has the highest dignity in the land bowed his head within its historic walls to receive the blessings of the church on his union in the holy bonds of matrimony.

From the very dawn of the wedding day the city seemed alive to the approaching event. Little knots of idlers talked it over on the sidewalks in front of the hotels, sedate matrons gossiped as they passed along the streets and besides of laughing girls chatted and speculated about the coming momentous ceremony. If there be any truth in the ancient adage, a happy bride will remain in the White House, for though the day opened with a gray and cheerless sky and shadows resting on the earth, yet as the older the elements seemed to relent and little by little the sun forced its way through the unwilling clouds until its broad beams shone in generous abundance on the soft green lawn of the White House, and the city seemed to breathe a new life.

At the White House, the bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

The bride and groom were met by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The bride was dressed in a simple white gown, and the groom in a dark suit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Williams, D.D., who read the opening prayer. The bride and groom then exchanged vows, and the ceremony was concluded with a reading of the marriage service. The bride and groom then stood before the guests, and the President and Mrs. Cleveland presented them to the company. The bride and groom then retired to their apartments, and the guests dispersed.

THE CEREMONY.

Starting from the western corridor on the upper floor, the President came slowly down the western stair-case with his bride leaning on his arm. They were accompanied, even the bride's mother awaiting her with the other guests. Passing through the central corridor the bride and groom entered the Blue Room and took a position near the southern wall which was completely hidden from sight by a mass of nodding palms, tropical grasses and an enormous bouquet of choice flowers. The crystal chandelier poured a flood of mellow radiance upon the scene and the colors of the massive banks of sapphire and royal tulle and silver tulle mingling with the blue and silver tones of the frescoed walls and ceiling gave a glowing tone to the whole. The delicate ivory shade of the bride's wedding dress found exquisite setting in the masses of crimson roses immediately beyond. The President was in full evening dress, with white down collar, white lace necktie and white ruffled shirt.

A hush fell upon the assembly as Dr. Sunderland stepped forward to his position in front of the wedding couple, with the Rev. William Williams, D.D., the President's brother-in-law, standing by. In a distinct tone of voice and with a deliberate utterance he began the simple wedding service as follows: "For as much as we are assembled to observe the holy rites of marriage, it is needful that we should seek the blessing of God, the Father of our Father, whose institution it is, and therefore I beseech you now to follow with reverent hearts in prayer."

THE MINISTER'S PRAYER.

Almighty and everlasting God, the Father of our spirits, the framer of our bodies, the giver of every good and perfect gift, Thou, who canst see the heart and know the thoughts, who knowest what is best for us, Thy children, and hast appointed the holy rite of marriage to be a sacred observance throughout the generations of men, we beseech thee, Thy servant our chief magistrate; endow him plentifully with Thy grace and fill him with wisdom to walk in Thy ordinances. Be very nigh to him in the midst of many and great responsibilities; day by day, Thy law direct him and Thy strength uphold him, and be Thou forever his sun and shield. And be graciously pleased to look down upon this Thy daughter even as Thou dost favor the chosen Rebecca and many noble women that have adorned the world. May she, indeed, be a precious bower of good to her husband, to cheer and help him continually, a woman gifted with the beauty of the Lord and abiding the sweet influence of Thy Spirit, and may she be a blessing to him in the home where she dwells. Will Thou approve what we Thy servants do to do in Thy name by this author and under the laws of the land in which we live and graciously assist them, this man and this woman, who are here assembled to be united in the bonds of holy wedlock according to the institution of Thy word? Mercifully be pleased Almighty God to vouchsafe to show them Thy grace.

Addressing the company Dr. Sunderland said: "Marriage is a blessed union of all men, in that a man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleave unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh. It was constituted by our Creator in the first paradise. It was consecrated by patriarchs, prophets and apostles, and was confirmed by the teaching of the Lord and the Holy Ghost. It is the foundation of the world, and it is the basis of all civilization. It is the source of all life, and it is the foundation of all hope. It is the source of all joy, and it is the foundation of all peace. It is the source of all love, and it is the foundation of all faith. It is the source of all wisdom, and it is the foundation of all knowledge. It is the source of all power, and it is the foundation of all glory. It is the source of all honor, and it is the foundation of